COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

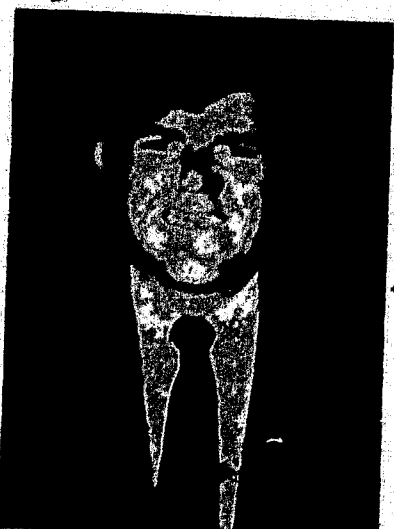

We are having very good weather this fall to prepare for winter. The new truck recently purchased is now in Skowhegan having the snow plow attachment mounted. The others will be prepared at the Town Garage.

Next week the sand pile will be screened. Eighty tons of sand has been ordered for that purpose. This year we are trying, for the first time, a pellet form of chemical to spread over the top of the pile after we are done hauling. This is supposed to prevent freezing of the sand which results in waste and lost time as a result of lumps jamming the mechanism in the sanders. Last year we experienced more trouble than usual as a result of the heavy rains which penetrated the sand pile to a greater depth than normal. The pile then froze to a depth of about four feet. Although this material is salvaged for another year it is very time consuming to carry this all to the side as it breaks down. There are always small particles that escape detection and cause the sanders to malfunction.

RUMFORD HOSPITAL RECEIVES HEALTH ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

Rumford Community Hospital was awarded the 1970 Health Achievement Award of the Health Council of Maine for its Smoking Withdrawal Program. Mrs. Rosabelle Tift, of Bethel, the hospital's director of public relations and coordinator of the clinic, accepted the award in behalf of the hospital. Presentation was made at the annual meeting of the Maine Health Council held Tuesday, Oct. 13, at Waterville.

The Health Council of Maine gave the award in recognition of the outstanding achievement of the hospital in the conduct of this clinic which had 88 members. However, it was in fact the broad design of the clinic was one which coordinated the involvement of many more key people and agencies, locally, regionally, and statewide, in the planning and conduct of an effective health education program.

It was noted that 3400 junior and senior high school children and their teachers in the Rumford region received special assembly programs educationally structured to carry over into classrooms and homes. Also, that newspaper and radio releases helped to educate the broader community as well as to report the clinic.

TELSTAR SCORES 39-32 WIN OVER GREENVILLE

The winners added a score in each of the remaining quarters as Dana McNeill had one on a 40 yard pass from Ron Deegan; Jeff Carver on a 65 yard pass from Pete Blake and a 10 yard sweep by Bob Tift.

Greenville's total came via three Jim Snow passes and a Snow keep or Snow passed 30 and 40 yards to Steve Lizotte and 20 yards to Carl Mason.

Telstar is now 2-3 while Greenville dipped to 0-5.

So, we did this—voted to spend this money—surely we must have known that it would have to be paid for by ourselves.

All "The Town" did was agonize many hours trying to come up with the lowest rate for taxes that could support our own choices. Who then should we criticize?

Regarding the valuations placed upon various property in town, I cannot argue that each and all are fair and just. There are inequities, I am sure. It would be fantastic if there were not. If we choose to revalue the whole town again I am sure there would still be inequities. I have heard so much from so many about how their tax is so much higher than his neighbor's tax but I've yet to hear one person claim that his tax was lower than someone else's. Is this logical thinking?

Our assessors do their job as fairly and well as they can using a rule that is used, not just in this town but other towns as well. We chose them to see that each of us pays his just share of the cost of running this town of ours. And for this they are paid a sum of money that does not even cover their mileage.

Why do they do it? Surely they don't do it for the glory. From recent attitudes glory is not what they are covered with. Surely they do not do it for the money they receive for service rendered. But may be service is a good word to use—service—a service to the town and townsmen—us—. They might be doing it out of a feeling of social responsibility. Thank heavens some have this feeling.

We have our tax bills. They are too high for a lot of us to pay easily. We must ask ourselves why—and find a solution to continued rising costs. Property taxes alone cannot carry our educational costs along with our own town costs. We cannot continuously pare the town operating cost for school appropriations. We must find a broader base for taxes than this narrow one we have now for education. We are not alone in this dilemma. Our town is not the only town facing this type of situation. But we must take heed.

We heard some sober, number truths last year from a fine East Bethel resident. We must face the causes of tax increases (property) and not spend our time in idle griping on the effects. We must not wait until the evil we ask what to do. We must start and should start now with constructive thought on property tax relief—through a broad based tax increase that is based upon the ability to earn. If this is a solution then the answer should come out of State—and we are the state—we have representatives that speak for us there too, you know.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS. THEY WANT YOUR BUSINESS

Letters to the Editor

The Bethel residents have just received their tax bills for the year and it seems that everyone has the same opinion—they are too high. I might be just listening better this year but I seem to have been exposed to more talk regarding the taxes. Then again each year the taxes do go up and each year we are all a little more hard pressed to pay the bill. Maybe the talk increases with the tax rate increase.

I have heard to much criticism this year of the various aspects of the "Town" that I feel that we should consider a few points.

"The Town." Who is the Town?—Well, it is all of us—we are the town. The "Town Selectmen and Assessors." Who are they? They are our friends and neighbors who have been elected to represent us and handle the Town's affairs? They are our representatives not our antagonists. They are our bookkeepers, arbitrators, and the men who budget the monies that we have chosen to spend.

Let us consider the tax rate. The rate is set to raise enough money to cover the operating cost of our town. We all know that. We all know that this money we vote to spend is just that—money we voted to spend. We voted, each of us who did, at a town meeting, where each appropriation was openly discussed. Perhaps we all might not, on each and every item, been satisfied with the vote but the majority were satisfied or the appropriation would not have been approved. So, on the municipal level we all had a voice and a choice. Did we exercise both? I hope that all the concerned citizens did.

We also attended a meeting to approve the school district budget. Again we voted and the majority ruled. How else can we run a family, town or government.

So, we did this—voted to spend this money—surely we must have known that it would have to be paid for by ourselves.

All "The Town" did was agonize many hours trying to come up with the lowest rate for taxes that could support our own choices. Who then should we criticize?

Regarding the valuations placed upon various property in town, I cannot argue that each and all are fair and just. There are inequities, I am sure. It would be fantastic if there were not. SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASSES AT OUR LADY OF SNOWS CHURCH TO START OCT. 18

Sunday School classes will begin this week at Our Lady of the Snows Church following the Sunday Mass. All those who have volunteered to teach are asked to remain for classes at that time.

DATES OF M. V. C. AND STATE CROSS-COUNTRY MEETS GIVEN

The dates of the Mountain Valley Conference and State "Class B" cross-country meets have been announced as follows:

Tuesday, Oct. 27 - Mountain Valley Conference Meet at Mexico, Saturday, Nov. 7 - State Class B Cross Country Meet at Colby College, Waterville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Glazier of Keene, N. H., were in town over the week end.

The Eleanor Gordon Guild will meet at the home of Ann Greenleaf at 6:30 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 21. Please bring either a hot dish or salad.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mason Carter recently attended the New Hampshire Social Welfare Council Annual Meeting at the Sheraton-Wayfarer, Bedford, N. H. Mrs. Carter is a social worker employed by the North Country Community Services Mental Health Clinic in Berlin, N. H.

In the cemetery. They watched it awhile and then went for a gun, but it was gone when they returned. The critter had another of Fred's ducks in his mouth but didn't make a dinner of it as Fred feared him off.

Mr. Viens from Berlin has bought the former Claude Abbott place. Cedric, Tammy and Marlon Abbott were in town Sunday getting some things from their place here.

George Scholz was in town Sunday bringing the reason he has not been able to make it to Upton lately. Seems it was the pretty young postmistress of East Sumner.

Several families from Massachusetts were in town over the week end as Monday was a holiday there. Another milestone has been unveiled from under the church. This makes four, all different and all unused. Avery figures it may be they were made by Hiram West who did that work while he ran the grist mill on Mill Hill, and when they became obsolete, he or his heirs sold or gave left over stones for foundation stones.

Avery Angevine is having a road made to his new trailer in the East B Hill Road. Phil Korhonen and George Learned of Newry hauled gravel and Earl Buck leveled it with Bob Carmon's tractor.

Elsie Fuller and I attended the Gospel service in Bethel Sunday night. The pastor, Bob Colby, is leading a series on Prophecy and as I have been more or less studying this from other sources and also trying to read and understand our rent events which might be in I am pleased that through the Bethel press, I "discovered" these meetings.

TELSTAR R. H. S. NEWS - STUDENT COUNCIL NOTES: Artist of the Month

Sherwood Jordan, is Telstar's "artist of the month." He was given this distinction for his pottery work, that Mrs. Thayer, Telstar's art teacher, terms as "fantastic."

According to Mrs. Thayer, future artists of the month will be painter sketchers, and sculptors, and will be selected by the students themselves.

The entire program helps to promote school spirit and pride in the students' work. At the same time it gives the school a better idea of some of the talent that exists in Telstar.

SKIES OVER TELSTAR

During the rest of the school year the Telstar Astronomy Class will bring to you news of celestial events. Not news of war, pollution, or other earthly problems, but rather of the only thing left not yet ruined by man -- the Universe.

Calendar of Events:

Moon: As far as the changes in the moon's phases occur this week, the moon will be waning. Going from a full moon, which occurred last night the 14th, to the last quarter which will take place next Thursday, Oct. 22. The moon will be rising at about sunset this week.

Mercury: This planet's orbit is nearing the sun so even though it is rising about an hour before the sun the sun's glare is hindering the visibility of this planet.

Venus: Will be visible a short time this week after sunset in the western sky.

Mars: Rises at about 5:00 a. m. and can be seen in the eastern sky until sunrise.

Jupiter: Sets, as does Venus, shortly after sunset and will disappear into the sun's glare later this month.

Note: This week there is a high chance of meteor showers in the early morning, especially peaking around the 21st. Only the brightness of the last quarter moon will hinder the sight of onlookers.

GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Collette Morgan, Corres.—

Most mornings this week the sky
has been filled with ash-gray haze.
But within a few hours along our smoking valley autumn with flames

of red and gold pushed away the shrouds. Around the bend of the river and waiting beyond the hills there was tremendous beauty. I found it so in my climb and in my trip with Boat up the Sanborn.

The colors of the maples are most spectacular; some with every leaf fiery red, while a few feet away one with yellow or another still dressed in green.

With four companions, I climbed to Table Rock, my second trip this fall.

Two of our group were from Montana so I presume our mountains seemed smaller, less mysterious, maybe less poetic than Mt. Hood or others they have climbed in the west.

However they found the charm and responded to the beauty of the valley guarded by bluffs and purple shadows streaming in the background of our brilliant yellow and orange.

We eased along the trails, just glad to be out.

Mosses and ferns grew from the cliffs wherever a little moisture oozed into a crevice. On a dryer surface the lichens grew. Limbs of broken trees clutched the ledges and bare roots made good handles for climbing. The forest floor was livened with the brightness of fallen leaves, rich and springy.

The voices of the breezes were like invisible fairy spirits and a few fleecy clouds sailed like snowy galleons across the sky.

From this height with the wide expanse before us I'm sure we all felt that the world is all right. Troubles are among the people.

These were breathless moments,
standing before a panorama of pastel colors while looming over the wooded hills was Mt. Speck and rugged barren peaks dominating the countryside. Summits of gray granite, the same as that on which we sat, were devoid of vegetation. Below us was the wildness of ledges and ravines. A mass of coniferous trees struggled grimly for nourishment in their meager soil.

Everything below was tolylike as we sat or stood and surveyed the wild beauty of the scene.

Our down trail was quite new and led over rough and rugged land;
around, over boulders, under ledges or trees, but always down with high bluffs glistening above us. Through thickets of young fir and maples thickly canopied we climbed, slid, picked our way; this is the way of a trail.

The golden bordered pathway was a dream world, which was aching.

ternoon.

for her daisy afghan.

ly happy and so beautiful that there is hardly any way to tell about it—just a glorious gold and blue day.

We came home to scenery, not as spectacular, but just as lovely. From my windows I can see out across the water. Up my Sanborn River there is the red and molten gold. The water is still and glassy, the air bainy.

And from the farm's top fields
there is no place more colorful—a blazing patchwork of colors: orange, russet, gold and crimson stitched together with the dark thread of the evergreens. Nestled amidst all is the big indigo blue patch, the pond.

Years may run away with me out not these moments of reality.

Members of the Community Club

GOULD BIOLOGY STUDENTS ASSIST IN WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT

The Advanced Biology Class of Gould Academy worked in cooperation with the U. S. Forest Service last week by seeding wild rice in the Pate Brook Watershed Impoundment in Albany. Donald Feeney, the class instructor, and John Anderson, District Ranger for the Evans Notch District of the White Mountain National Forest, helped the group to select a seeding area near the headwaters of the marsh.

The class has learned that wild rice grows best in shallow water with a muddy or silty bottom. The water in the seeded area has a very slow flow which they also knew was necessary to prevent stagnation, which would prevent the seeds from germinating next spring. The group will return in the spring to check on the success of the project.

Wild rice is the top duck food in the northeast and has been successfully introduced into many areas of this state. The seed was provided by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.
